This is a process map of a desiccant dehumidification system. Return air and outside air are mixed and is then cooled and dehumidified by a cooling coil. Next, part of the air is drawn through a desiccant dehumidifier and then mixed with bypass air. Finally, the air is sensibly cooled to the desired leaving air dry-bulb.